

InterSpace is a free sample library inspired by space travel and distant worlds, crafted by Johan Ekelove aka Introspectral. The library features a wide range of sci-fi sound effects, abstract sonic textures and futuristic noises.

This is the second release by Introspectral, who is also the author of the brilliant The Weird Sound Samples sound collection which was based on various bits and pieces from his album The Weird Side Of The Mundane.

The library is inspired by an imaginary story of an abandoned spacecraft which is floating around in space without any crew or other kind of life form on board. The ship is long forgotten, however its AI is intentionally drifting around in space, visiting various distant galaxies purely out of joy.
